

MASTER OF EDUCATION (M.Ed.)

Specialization in

Curriculum and Instruction for Educators

OVERVIEW

The role of instructors, instructional designers and curriculum developers has changed dramatically over the past decade. Today, education focuses on ensuring that educational programs help learners understand abstract concepts, solve problems, work as effective team members and develop critical-thinking skills.

AIU's Master of Education Degree program provides a solid foundation for effective educational practice and advancement for all levels of educational practitioners including K-12*, higher education and corporate learning. Students could develop a solid foundation in learning theory, instructional design and instructional technology, as well as application of educational research methods.

This professionally-focused M.Ed program is designed to help students utilize authentic tools and assessment in application of learning outcomes, such as Lectora. They can also learn to collaborate in a community of learners for professional application of skills and learn the importance of asking the right questions in order to prompt efficient and effective answers.

CURRICULUM INCLUDES

In this specialized course of study, students can focus on the curriculum and related instructional processes and tools, including the study of curriculum theory, curriculum design and planning, instructional material design and evaluation, curriculum evaluation, and applications to specific subject matter, programs or educational levels.

Specialization courses are structured to assist students in the development of their goals, as they can learn advanced knowledge and skills common to today's professional curriculum specialists. For example:

- In Principles of Curriculum Improvement, students can examine forces influencing curriculum improvement, by focusing on the analysis of curriculum and the application of principles for resolution of curriculum problems.
- In Designing Effective Courses, students can examine techniques and methods of effective course design and implementation. Topics covered can include motivation, consultation, instructional strategies and student assessment.
- In Curriculum Design and Evaluation, students can focus on the development of comprehensive educational curriculum and/or development programs by performing all phases of curricula design tied to their area of professional practice.
- In Decision Making in Curriculum and Instruction, students can analyze the underlying assumptions and research supporting various teaching and design practices. Students can create a curriculum-design project integrating concepts and skills gained throughout this program.

*American InterContinental University's Master of Education degree is not designed to meet state educator licensing or advancement requirements; however, it may assist candidates in gaining these approvals in their state of residence depending on those requirements.
